Good evening!

As we end day three, I wanted to reach out to parents and students to let you know that BTPS continues to work hard to develop a plan of how we can support our students in this very unusual situation. We want parents to know that supporting you as you help your child(ren) is also a part of the work that we are doing. Over the last day, many of you have visited your schools to pick up personal belongings. We know how hard that must have been for some. A part of our work is figuring out how we support students who are struggling emotionally with this sudden change.

We have already met with our school leaders a number of times to get their input on our next steps. It is our plan to send out information the first part of next week that will provide you with detailed plans on how we are going to provide continuity of learning for your children and the other ways we will be supporting them through this challenging time. We know that some of you are worried about your children falling behind. We are committed to working with you and confident that by working together we can do this!
