Planned health and safety inspections are an important tool to prevent workplace injuries, illness and property damage. Workplace inspections compliment the hazard assessment process by providing a systematic way to look for: unsafe acts and/or conditions, new hazards not previously identified, and for identifying whether hazard controls are in place and working.

Responsibilities:

In addition to inspections conducted by various government authorities, principals and decision unit administrators are accountable to ensure that both informal and planned health and safety inspections are regularly conducted at their worksite.

The responsibility to carry out inspections should be assigned to supervisors and/or employees knowledgeable about the job or work task. At least 3 employees at each worksite should be trained in workplace inspection in order to provide advice and assistance to their co-workers.

In addition to planned inspections, individual employees are responsible for doing informal or spot inspections of their immediate work area as part of their normal duties for maintaining a safe and healthy workplace. In higher hazard work areas such as mechanical rooms, science or CTS labs, both planned and spot inspections should be conducted at more frequent intervals to prevent the development of unsafe conditions.

District Occupational Health and Safety Coordinator will support the site inspection program by providing in-services on workplace inspection, reviewing site inspection reports and conducting inspections of worksites based on risk profiles and district health and safety program objectives.

Protocol:

1. Planned (scheduled) worksite health and safety inspections of schools and facilities occupied by district staff and students shall be conducted based on an annual inspection schedule prepared for each school year. Schools and Central Services departments shall establish an inspection schedule that ensures the entire workplace is inspected at least once per year. Inspections of higher risk work areas should be conducted at least twice per year or whenever there is a significant change to the task or work environment.

3. The principal or decision unit administrator and supervisors shall participate in workplace inspections at least twice annually by touring the worksite either formally or informally to reinforce good health and safety practices and behaviors. 10. In the event of a health and safety inspection by government officials, the principal or District administrator shall inform a district OHS Coordinator as soon as possible and provide copies of any inspection reports and/or orders.
